The Latter Are Taking Care of the Wounded But Force Others Back Across the Border

(By Associated Press.)

Presidio, Texas, Dec. 30.—Four thousand Mexican federals, comprising the army of the north, this morning are fleeing in utter rout before General Villa's constitutionalist army. The rebels last night entered the deep canyons, slaughtered the federal outposts, crept within rifle range of the Ojinaga forts and opened fire at dusk. The federals were frightened and scattered and hundreds jumped into the Rio Grande and crossed to the United States. The American troops allowed only the wounded to remain and forced the others back to Mexico. The slain are comparatively few. Many wounded are being cared for by United States army doctors. The federals in the forts mutinied and Generals Salazar and Orozco drew their pistols and threatened to kill the soldiers who did not obey their officers. Firing ceased before midnight and federal generals today are trying to rally their scattered troops.

FAMOUS SAFE BLOWER ESCAPES FROM JAIL AT JACKSONVILLE

Jacksonville, Dec. 30.—A. D. Cannameyer, better known in criminal records as Albert Driscoll, professional safe blower and confessed preacher, escaped from the county jail at 3:30 a. m. yesterday by sawing through the bars in his cell and lowering himself to the ground with tied blankets. He was awaiting trial for robbing the postoffice at Green Cove Springs last July.

Tracks, which showed clearly the progress of the prisoner, were traced over the gasoline shed at the jail where the ex-prisoner scaled the wall. Cannameyer, who has been given extra surveillance since his incarceration last February, was allowed the privilege of an outside cell about ten days ago after feigning illness. A fine steel saw explained all to the sheriff and his assistants this morning, and at once it was discovered that the escaped prisoner had been visited by a good angel—a mysterious woman in blue. At 3:15 a. m. when Arthur Kenniston, the jailer, visited the cell of Cannameyer he apparently was sleeping soundly. On his return at 3:45 a. m. the prisoner was gone, and the tied blankets, a few letters and an old Panama hat spelled farewell to the custodians of the man who is wanted in many States for the tricks he has turned with his knowledge of nitro-glycerine and safe-cracking. In the disappearance of Cannameyer the local authorities have met the fate of all institutions in which he has been confined. He is considered the best man in his business, and has made several escapes. Cannameyer escaped from the famous Joliet penitentiary under the very nose of the guards and broke for his freedom at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. He escaped from Atlanta in the same manner.

BEGIN PLANNING TO DRIVE SALOONS FROM JACKSONVILLE

Jacksonville, Dec. 30.—Plans for a vigorous campaign to drive the saloons from Jacksonville were furthered yesterday following the mass-meeting held the day before at the Y. M. C. A. under the auspices of "The Young Men's Movement for a Better Jacksonville," at which C. B. Heckernell, former reform mayor of Ada, Ohio, was the principal speaker. Speakers urged the organization not to hesitate in its fight but to push it from the moment of adjournment, one declaring that two-thirds of Jacksonville people are against the open bar and that whenever they can be rallied the success of prohibition here is assured. I. C. Baldwin, a leader in the movement, presided. He explained that the movement is not a one-man affair, but the spontaneous uprising of the young men of the city against present conditions. He also explained some of the difficulties the organization has encountered—that many prominent men, really friendly to the abolition of the liquor traffic, are opposed to action during the tourist season, fearing that the campaign might send abroad an unsavory reputation for the city on account of campaign exposures. He declared, however, that there is no reason why a campaign of education on the subject should not be inaugurated at once.
